The Goring has always been a destination rather than simply a convenience. Those quintessentially English qualities of understated refinement and mild eccentricity have made The Goring one of the most distinctive 5-star hotels in London.

Business users will find wonderful service, comfort and facilities in a setting which evokes style and individuality. The Goring does not cater for large conferences, but specialises in smaller, high level events for up to 60 guests.

Our meeting rooms include some very high-tech presentation equipment and we are able to handle even the wackiest AV requirements.

Our enviable location next door to Buckingham Palace offers the considerable advantage of excellent transport links.

Victoria Station is a four minute walk from the hotel. London's airports and other international rail connections are within easy reach too.
